Abstract Of The Disclosure

A method for enabling useful data, in particular navigation data, which are stored on a data carrier or transmitted into a data processing system. The user is provided with an optimized data provision method. For this purpose, the data are enabled for an area that is freely selectable by the user of the useful data.

5